CORONER'S CALL ON LORRY SAFETY

Report by Alex Ross

A CORONER is calling on the Department of Transport to look again at regulations over mirrors on older lorries after a war veteran was knocked down and killed by a skip lorry.

The inquest heard that as the driver pulled away attraffic lights he was unable to see the 90-year-old under his front windscreen.

The lorry driven by Geoffrey Hawkins ran over Royal British Legion fundraiser Arnold Soulsby at the crossroad junction of Bank Street and Dudley Road in Brierley Hill.

War veteran Arnold Soulsby

Fitted

An inquest at Dudley Coroners' Court was told the lorry had no forward-facing mirrors, which created a blind spot in front of the vehicle.

Under recent regulations brought in by the Department For Transport (DfT), all heavy goods vehicles made since 2007 must have the mirrors fitted.

Black Country Coroner Robin Balmain, who concluded Mr Arnold died from multiple injuries, said he was to write to the DfT.

He revealed that he had dealt with six similar cases in the past seven years.

Mr Soulsby's daughter, Susan Rowley, told the hearing said she was 'alarmed' the regulation did not apply to all heavy goods vehicles.

Mr Balmain said: "For whatever reason it wasn't felt necessary to make the regulation retrospective, so it applied to new vehicles, but not to older vehicles.

"I don't know why that was done. It might be something to do with the fitting and cost of doing it but I do share Mrs Rowley's concern.

"I think this is far from an isolated incident, I think I ought to draw it to Department of Transport's attention to see if they will make steps to make it retrospective.

"I do intend to write to department if the matter can be considered again to see if anything can be done."

Mr Hawkins had been driving the lorry to Halesowen when he pulled up at a red light in Bank Street just after 1pm on January 30 last year.

Asked by Mr Balmain if he had seen Mr Soulsby, he replied 'no'.

Mr Soulsby, a retired engineer, lived in Miles Court in John Street. He served in the Royal Navy during the Second World War.

First glimpse of market transformation

Modern market — an artist's impression of Dudley's new market place viewed from New Street

THIS is an artist's impressions showing how Dudley's historic market place will be transformed as part of a £6.7 million project.

New stalls, canopies and lighting will help breathe new life into Dudley Market.

Images released by Dudley Council give shoppers a glimpse of how the area will look when work is completed next year.

The project includes the relocation of the Duncan Edwards statue to a more prominent place at the New Street end of the market.

The first phase of work, which includes the laying of new stonework, began in Castle Street in January.

The next stage will see the new market stalls constructed.

John Millar, director of the urban environment, said: "This next phase of the scheme will start to build a picture in people's minds of what the new market place will look like once complete.

Attractive

"Our aim has always been to create a clean, modern and attractive space, putting Dudley's historic market place well and truly on the map."

Next month market traders will be relocating to temporary stalls near the fountain, with overspill stalls at Stone Street Square.

From Tuesday, May 27, there will be a new traffic arrangement in the town centre.

Entry to and exit from the events area, between the fountain and Stone Street, will be via Stone Street only. Vehicles will not be permitted to drive through the market place and exit via New Street.

From next week shoppers will be able to use certain parts of New Street for parking.

Waste site scheme is withdrawn — for now

CONTROVERSIAL proposals to build a waste plant in Brierley Hill have been withdrawn just weeks before the application was set to be decided at a planning appeal – but campaigners cannot yet claim victory.

Bosses behind the plans have insisted they still intend to create the plant in Brierley Hill and will instead lodge a new application rather than proceeding with the appeal.

Opposed

Members of the Brierley Hill SNOW (Say No to Waste site) campaign group, which has opposed the plans by Clean Power, say they will continue to oppose the proposal with 'vigour'.

In a letter to the planning inspectorate, James Waterhouse, director of Clean Power agents Iceni Projects, confirmed the appeal had been withdrawn but maintained the company remained 'fully committed' to the project.

Mr Waterhouse said the decision to pull the appeal was made after some minor amendments were made to the proposal after discussions with the Environment Agency.

Under guidelines from the Planning Inspectorate, the body advises against 'evolving applications at appeal'.

Mayor is to re-open store

THE Mayor of Dudley will officially re-open a refurbished store in the town.

Councillor Alan Finch will cut the ribbon of the new-look B&M store in the Trident Centre on Saturday.

The store has recently had a makeover and will stock more products after increasing shelf space by 50 per cent, creating 10 jobs.

There will also be free face painting, an appearance by the Haribo Bear and a charity raffle in aid of Dudley-based White House Cancer Support.

Street bid to curb problem parking

DOUBLE yellow lines have been painted on a residential street near Russells Hall Hospital in a bid to stamp out nuisance parking.

Residents have long complained about cars clogging up their road near the Dudley hospital and every resident in Abbotsford Drive signed a petition about it, sent to Dudley Council.

Bosses have now taken action and painted the lines, which mean any motorist caught parking illegally faces a fine of up to £70.

Abuse

Residents had complained that thoughtless motorists had been blocking their drives and parking on pavements. They also claimed that they suffered frequent abuse from the motorists.

Hazel Waterfield, aged 73, of Abbotsford Drive, said: "When I have asked people to move their cars, I have been threatened with violence and told to drop down dead. No-one should have to deal with that."

Dudley North MP Ian Austin supported the campaign. He said: "I know from visiting the street myself what residents were having to put up with, so I'm delighted that the council have put down double yellow lines to tackle these problems."

Terror book trial date set

A MAN from Dudley has pleaded not guilty to two counts of distributing a terrorist book.

Usman Choudhary, aged 33, of Terry Street, is accused of supplying a book allegedly intended to directly or indirectly encourage or induce the commission, preparation or instigation of acts of terrorism.

Unemployed Choudhary pleaded not guilty on Monday and remains in custody until trial at Kingston Crown Court on July 7.

Army reserve squadron to expand

AN ARMY reserve squadron which was once part of one of the Midlands' oldest TA regiments will expand by a third under ambitious recruitment plan.

The announcement has been made after soldiers from the Royal Mercian and Lancastrian Yeomanry gathered at their base in Dudley to watch their flag lowered for the last time as part of changes being introduced by the Ministry of Defence.

As part of the ceremony the red, blue and yellow flag of the RMLY was replaced with A Squadron's own standard. However, this will soon be replaced by the green, white and yellow standard of the Royal Yeomanry.

New badges were also revealed as part of changes as the Government re-structures the Territorial Army into the Army Reserve. Members of A Squadron in Dudley will take on the role of a light cavalry unit providing a reconnaissance during operations as part of the Royal Yeomanry, which has its headquarters in Croydon.

Earlier this year it was feared that the centre in Vicar Street, Dudley, would close but MP Ian Austin secured a commitment from Government ensuring Dudley's Army Reserve squadron will be able to expand. The squadron has around 60 soldiers but plans to recruit around 25 to 30 more to the unit.

Captain Andy Peters, Permanent Staff Administration Officer, said: "We did have uncertainty over the base but we are staying open and we are going to expand and continue to recruit."

Convenience store raiders behind bars

THEY were a series of 'blood chilling' dawn robberies carried out by a professional band of criminals.

During their eight-week campaign of terror they raided seven convenience stores – including one in Gornal – which saw staff threatened, tied up and even beaten as they made off with a haul of cash, cigarettes and scratch cards worth £84,000.

Now Graham Aulton, 33, of High Street, Wednesfield, Stewart Ferguson 35, of Talbot Lane, Bilston, Alan Britton, 40, of Duke Street, Wolverhampton, and Craig Osmund-Smith, 41, of Valley Road, Dudley, are serving time behind bars after being given hefty prison sentences.

Masked and bearing weapons they sprung on vulnerable shop workers as they opened up during the early hours across the Black country, Staffordshire and Shropshire.

The seven stores hit were Tesco Express in Codsall; Tesco Express in Willenhall Road, Wolverhampton; Spar in Wombourne; the Co-op in Penkridge; Sainsbury's Local in Gornal; One Stop in Ashmore Park, Wolverhampton; and Spar in Bayston Hill, Shrewsbury.

Police arrested Osmund-Smith, Aulton, and Ferguson on November 5 last year as the trio arrived at the Sainsbury's Local in Wordsley in a BMW at 5am.

Crashed

Aulton, in the driver's seat, tried to speed off but crashed into an unmarked police car.

Stafford Crown Court heard in the first attack in Codsall on September 9, threats were made to workers with an axe and wrench.

The second raid at Tesco in Willenhall Road, Wolverhampton, saw two members of staff handcuffed to a metal rail as the robbers plundered the store.

The handcuffs – which originally belonged to a custody officer – that would proved to be a vital clue as they had been left in the boot of the prison worker's stolen orange Ford Focus which was later used in some of the robberies.

While the car was never recovered, its alloy wheels and tyres were found in the downstairs toilet at the home of Aulton, who was described as taking on a 'leading role' by His Honour Judge Michael Fowler.

The raid in Shrewsbury on October 16 saw a staff member kicked in the face while the robbery in Ashmore Park saw the manager's BMW stolen which three of the gang were later arrested in.

The trauma of the robbery at Spar, Windmill Bank, Wombourne, resulted in one male staff member later having a heart attack. Mobile telephone records showed the group would exchange messages in the early hours before the raids, shortly after and late at night before the attack. Aulton was jailed for eight years and nine months after admitting conspiracy to commit robbery alongside Britton who received seven years and seven months and Osmund-Smith who was sent down for six years and nine months. Ferguson denied the charge but was unanimously found guilty yesterday by a jury. He was jailed for eight years and nine months. Sentencing, Judge Fowler said: "There was intimidation by urgency. There was total disregard for the feelings and wellbeing of those who were in the stores when the robberies took place."

Detective Superintendent Paul Clews said: "The sentence is a culmination of some excellent partnership work across the West Midlands region."

Alan Britton – seven years, seven months

Craig Osmund-Smith – six years nine months

Graham Aulton – eight years nine months

Stewart Ferguson – unanimously found guilty

Three to be sentenced for attack with shovel

A MAN has been told a prison sentence is 'almost inevitable' after he admitted involvement in a violent attack where a victim was hit in the head with a shovel.

Benjamin Payne was due to stand trial at Wolverhampton Crown Court but the 20-year-old, of Chapel Street, Brierley Hill, changed his plea to guilty before the hearing begam. He admitted attempting to cause grievous bodily harm to the victim won Hagley Road, Stourbridge, at around 4.45am on June 30. The victim suffered minor injuries.

Payne was given unconditional bail until his appearance before the court on June 4 for sentencing. A report will be drawn up before the hearing.

Judge Amjad Nawaz said: "A custodial sentence is almost inevitable."

The victim was knocked to the ground during the attack before being kicked. He was hit over the head several times with the shovel as he lay helpless on the ground.

Mark Flavell, 44, of Manor Road, Wordsley, and Ryan Claridge, 20, of Barnett Lane, Kingswinford, have already pleaded guilty to charges. All three will appear on June 4 for sentence.

Organiser Olivier Simonin said: "We have new professional continental market traders from France, Belgium, Italy, Spain, Holland, Poland and many more countries."

Teenaged driver in city centre car chase

A TEENAGER from Dudley stole a car and was chased by police in Birmingham city centre. Zohabe Akbar, 18, pleaded guilty at Dudley Magistrates Court to stealing a Volkswagen Golf and driving dangerously in Broad Street.

Akbar, of Norman Street, Dixons Green, narrowly missed three pedestrians as he mounted the pavement to get away from an unmarked police car on April 17. The teenager, who had to be forcibly removed from the car, pleaded guilty to failing to stop, having no driving licence or insurance.

After a one mile pursuit, officers arrested Akbar, who had two passengers. Miss Jayne Yeomans, prosecuting, said: "Police were informed that a car stolen from Dudley was driving on Paradise Circus towards Broad Street at 4.30pm. The area was very busy.

"The car turned into Gas Street where an unmarked police car turned on its sirens and indicated to the car to stop but Akbar accelerated and narrowly missed a pedestrian."

Mr Peter Jordan, defending, said: "Akbar disagrees with some of the details of his driving." He will be sentenced at Wolverhampton Crown Court on June 11.

Children seek help on drugs

HUNDREDS of children have been referred for drug and alcohol treatment in the past two years in the Black Country.

In Dudley 141 youngsters accessed those services in 2012/13. Seven of them were aged nine to 12.

Dudley Councillor Susan Ridney, who chairs the borough's health scrutiny committee, said: "I am just concerned, with general cutbacks, that these figures do not creep up."

The most common means for children to come into contact with drugs and alcohol is through their parents.

Views are wanted on revamp for town

Action plan for Dudley town centre

RESIDENTS are being urged to take part in a consultation on the future regeneration of Dudley town centre

People are being asked to give their views on the proposed 'area action plan', which outlines development from now until 2026.

It includes proposals to build a new supermarket in the town centre, develop a multi-storey car park on Tower Street and improve connections between the Castle Hill attractions, Castlegate and the town centre.

The council says so far more than 90 per cent of online respondents have given their support to the council's plan for the future of the town centre. John Millar, director of urban environment at Dudley Council, said: "We would like to thank everyone who has responded and to encourage others to do so.

"This will be an important document in influencing how the town centre develops over the next decade and we are keen to receive as many views as possible."

The current round of responses will be considered as part of the next draft of the plan which will be consulted on in early 2015, with the final document scheduled for completion in 2016.

There are a number of topics that people can give their views on during the consultation. They include the kind of homes people want and jobs they need.

They are also asked to consider the quality of the borough's open spaces, how they can be improved and how the council can keep the character of the town while looking to the future.

Views are also wanted on the types of shops, bars and restaurants people want as well as parking and transport.

To take part, visit www.dudley.gov.uk/resident/planning/planning-policy/local-development-framework/dudley-aap/public-consultation or call Dudley Council's Tim Brown on (01384) 817215.

Thief's S20LUN plate led to police busting parts racket

Report by Alex Ross

A COCKY crook behind a £1 million car theft racket has been jailed – after he was spotted by police driving a sports car with a number plate spelling out 'stolen'.

Shanwaz Khan's operation to strip stolen cars for parts that were sold on got noticed by police when he was seen driving an Audi RS4 with the personalised number plate of S20LUN. It was part of a convoy of stolen Mercedes cars being driven in Birmingham.

Officers discovered that the 30-year-old was behind a ring that stole and stripped down cars at industrial units, including in Dudley and Tipton, to sell on as parts via the internet.

A court heard that in total the police linked the brash criminal to more than 80 vehicle thefts and violent carjackings during 2012.

The vehicles were processed at various industrial premises across the Black Country and Birmingham.

Their crimes produced a stolen goods haul valued at £1.1 million.

Brother

Khan, of Marsh Lane in Erdington, Birmingham, was jailed for seven years at Birmingham Crown Court after admitted conspiracy to commit burglary and handle stolen goods.

His brother Wajid Khan, aged 24, of Brookvale Road , Erdington, and his cousin Seyed Khan, 32, of Marsh Lane, received 30-month prison sentences after admitting conspiracy to handle stolen goods.

Fellow conspirators in the racket Ross and Matthew Dunham, aged 21 and 24, of Charter Avenue in Canley, Coventry, were jailed for five years and 39 months respectively after admitting conspiracy to commit burglaries.

Detective Constable Mo Azir, said: "The brazen attitude of Shanwaz Khan was typified by his personalised number plate.

"This was a clear jibe at the authorities and he believed his underground theft racket was going unnoticed.

"The joke is on him now, though, as he starts a long prison term."

The Audi RS4 with the provocative plate that was noticed by police

Arrogant criminal Shanwaz Khan's joke backfired

He explained: "We meticulously pieced together their network of premises and, when officers raided one unit in Aston, we found an Aladdin's cave of stolen cars and parts.

"Many of these were high-value luxury cars that had been brutishly chopped up, whilst another premises in the city centre was used exclusively to store engines ripped from the stolen cars.

"The scale of their criminal operation was vast and they showed a complete disregard to the trail of destruction and misery left behind to victims of these offences."

After Shanwaz Khan was spotted with the number plate in March in 2012, a six-month investigation led officers to the four other members of the crime ring.

The gang were linked to a total of 82 vehicle thefts during 2012.

They included a petrol station violent car-jacking at the Total garage in Kingsbury Road, Erdington, on August 29 when a man was dragged from behind the wheel of his £25,000 Ford Focus ST.

Two Mercedes C Class cars were also taken from a driveway in Grovefield Crescent, Balsall Common, on April 27.

In another incident a Seat Leon car was taken from a house in Coventry on June 11.

Engines

Shanwaz Khan stripped down the vehicles and stored the parts at industrial units in Cheston Road, Nechells, at Northfield Road in Dudley, at the Kings Industrial Estate in Tipton and in Orphanage Road in Erdington.

He also rented space at City Self Storage, in Curzon Street, Digbeth, to stash stolen engines before shipping many of them abroad.

More than 3,000 parts stripped from the stolen cars were sold on to unwitting internet buyers via an eBay account operated by the car thieves.

Detective Constable Azir said: "The premises were leased by the Khans using false names and documentation. Many of the cars were stolen to order for engines which the Khans shipped out to the continent."

Now the criminals are likely to pay financially for their activities too.

Det Con Azir added: "All five are subject of on-going Proceeds of Crime Act investigations and we'll look to seize any assets obtained through criminal activities."

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

DESPITE the sacking of a BBC presenter, the unexpurgated 1932 version of The Sun Has Got His Hat On can still be found online via Google. Mind you, the European Court of Justice now says Google should recognise the "right to be forgotten" and remove search results that members of the public find awkward or embarrassing. We can probably look forward to a golden age when nothing nasty can be found and online searches reveal only nice things: Gordon Brown: finest economist of his generation. Tony Blair: peace-bringer to the Middle East. Adolf Hitler: popular European politician and champion of the toothbrush moustache.

□□□□□□□□

ONE snag with the court's ruling on Google is that many of us share the same name. Thus, Google will tell you that "Peter Rhodes is a veteran BBC producer," "Peter Rhodes is a Chartered Psychologist," "Peter Rhodes is a London-based illustrator" and "Peter Rhodes is a waste of ink." Only one of these applies to me (no prizes) but am I entitled to have them all deleted?

□□□□□□□□

WHEN it was announced that a new film was to be made of Dad's Army, there was much gnashing of teeth from those who believe the sheer brilliance of Dad's Army cannot be replicated. So it was worthwhile watching last weekend' s repeat The Two and a Half Fathers (BBC2) which was badly conceived, badly written, badly acted and painfully embarrassing. Some of the 80 episodes hit unforgettable heights of comedy and poignancy. And some were awful.

□□□□□□□□

WE are told that Boko Haram, the name of the Nigerian terrorist group, means "Western education is forbidden." Haram is the Arabic word for forbidden which suggests the single word Boko means "Western education." But according to a BBC language expert, the name is a short form of a longer phrase and the meaning is implied. Strangely enough, Britain has an organisation with a very puzzling name. Special Air Service sounds like a courier company. It actually means "Lots of very hard men from Hereford are coming to kick seven sorts of  out of you." Boko Haram may soon be in for a real education.

□□□□□□□□

RESEARCHERS in California have discovered that polar bears have evolved uniquely to live on a high-fat diet that would kill any human. This, according to one report, is why polar bears never need to diet. Another reason polar bears never need to diet is that they stand nine feet tall, have razor-sharp claws and nobody ever calls them a lardarse.

□□□□□□□□

AS he campaigns for women soldiers in the front line and sneers at the Army's "macho" image, Defence Secretary Philip Hammond should try spending a few nights on exercise or operations with a typical infantry platoon. They are the ones whose job, to seize and hold the ground, has changed little in thousands of years. In the last resort they do it with with rifle butt, fists and bayonet, so close to the enemy that they can smell his dying breath. These are warriors who kill and are killed in much the same way as King Henry's muddy, bloody warhammer-wielding band of brothers at Agincourt. Their job is so filthy, foul, demeaning and stressful that it can, and often does, send them mad. It is a terrible tragedy that in the 21st century we still need men to do such things. And only a politician utterly unaware of the reality of battle would want women to do the same.

A MENTAL health service provider has been praised in a new report but told to make some improvements in the care of elderly residents.

Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust runs Bushey Fields Hospital, Dorothy Pattison Hospital and Bloxwich Hospital.

The service has been praised by England's Chief Inspector of Hospitals Professor Sir Mike Richards. But inspectors found the trust needs to make sure Bushey Field Hospital's Holyrood Ward meets needs of dementia patients; care and treatment of the elderly needed to improve; that patients nursed in isolation are correctly recorded and monitored.

They also called for all clinical staff to have the right specialist training; and to investigate staff survey results with regard to staff bullying claims.

In general, the Care Quality Commission inspection found the trust provided safe care and had effective leadership.

Sir Mike said: "We found Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust had a robust approach to learning from incidents and ensured this was embedded in practice across its services"

Dudley and Walsall Mental Health Partnership NHS Trust Chief Executive Gary Graham said: "We welcome the CQC's report which, overall, is very positive. I am pleased that the inspectors have recognised the hard work of our staff and the high quality, safe mental health services that we provide."

Setting sun may have dazzled pilot in crash

A PILOT may have had his vision impaired by the setting sun moments before his microlight hit power cables and crashed.

Father-of-two Andrew Tollerton, aged 52, of Gerald Road, Wollaston, died in a field after his Pegasus Flex Wing two-seater crashed at Barratt's Coppice, Stourton.

by Andrew Turton

An inquest jury ruled that Mr Tollerton died as a result of an accident shortly after 5.50pm on October 6. The lorry driver had suffered head and chest injuries in the crash at the field off the Bridgnorth Road.

The Air Accidents Investigation Branch revealed its findings last week. It found weather conditions that afternoon were good but added: "The sun was low in the sky and the pilot would have been flying almost directly into it during his final approach to the field."

Experts said the aircraft had only been airborne for five to 10 minutes before the accident happened . Previous flights recorded in Mr Tollerton's logbook had lasted on average 42 minutes. The report says the reason for the shortened flight could not be established but there were two possible causes.

"The flight was conducted late in the day and the pilot may have been concerned about the fading light.

"Secondly, the pilot had a pre-existing medical condition that had the potential to cause painful symptoms, which could have been distracting or partially incapacitating."

A post mortem report stated Mr Tollerton had medical conditions including high blood pressure and kidney stones.

The report concluded: "The microlight's approach, into wind and towards the low, setting sun, appeared to be under control until it struck the power cables. Although the pilot had operated from the field before, the angle of the sun and the close orientation of the power cables with the surface ruts in the field, together with the location of the power cable support poles, may have made the cables difficult to detect.

"The pilot did not appear to take any avoiding action, indicating that he did not see the cables or that he only did so when it was too late."

The report also stated Mr Tollerton did not have a pilot's licence and not completed the training.

Man remanded in custody

A MAN started a fire in his former flat by setting alight his window blinds, a court heard.

Adrian Daker, aged 25, started the small blaze in Hallchurch Road in Dudley on April 13.

Appearing at Wolverhampton Crown Court last week, he pleaded guilty to arson being reckless as to whether life would be endangered.

Judge Nicholas Webb adjourned the case for a psychiatric report.

Daker, of no fixed abode, was remanded in custody until a sentencing hearing on July 8.

Council in talks over lighting up church

HERITAGE experts have been drafted in to work on plans to light up a grade II listed church.

Dudley Council wants to install lighting outside St Edmund King and Martyr Church in Castle Street.

It is the latest part of £6.7million regeneration project to breathe new life into Dudley town centre.

Due to the church having listed status, English Heritage has been consulted on the proposals for the building which falls within a conservation area.

Discussions over the design of the lights, which would be fitted to concrete plinths outside the building, are now taking place to find the best way to carry out the work. The planning application has been withdrawn until a final design is drawn up.

John Millar, Dudley's director of urban environment, said: "As St Edmunds is a listed building, English Heritage are a consultee within the planning process and have made some comments on the design of the proposed new lighting. The application has therefore been withdrawn while we discuss the design with English Heritage and will be resubmitted."

Motorcyclist killed in France by sleeping driver

Keen cyclist David Cook

A FATHER-OF-TWO was killed during a motorcycling holiday in southern France when an 80-year-old woman fell asleep at the wheel of her car, an inquest heard.

Halesowen-born David Cook, 41, suffered internal bleeding and three heart attacks after being hit head-on by French pensioner Ginette Bock whose car was on the wrong side of the road, Cannock Coroner's Court heard.

Mr Cook had been riding behind his friend Bernie Brinkmann, from Stourbridge, on the D900 at Goult, north of Marseille, when the tragedy occurred just before 5.30pm on June 14 last year. He was flown by air ambulance to hospital in Marseille where he was later pronounced dead.

Both men would go on motorbiking holidays across the Continent together and were highly experienced riders, the court was told. Normally Mr Cook, of Wombourne, would ride in front with Mr Brinkmann following.

"Mr Brinkmann could see in the distance a car on the wrong side of the road and thought as it got nearer it would cross back on to the correct side," South Staffordshire coroner Andrew Haigh said. "But it didn't and at the last minute Mr Brinkmann swerved to the side of the road toward the crash barrier. He saw in his mirror that the car collided with David pretty much head-on."

Mr Brinkmann said: "David always travelled in front and for some reason he just said you go in the front and I'll go at the back. We were in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Bock has been convicted of involuntary homicide by a motor vehicle in the French courts.

Mr Cook, a rugby player, worked at Evans and White Ltd in Kingswinford. He is survived by wife Joy, son Adam and daughter Chloe.

Mr Haigh concluded death due to multiple injuries caused by road traffic collision.

Security camera keeping watch in village centre

A CCTV camera aimed at tackling anti-social behaviour in a village is up and running.

Plans to install the device in Abbey Road, Gornal, were first announced a year ago in a bid to stop groups causing a nuisance to residents and traders.

Now the camera is keeping watch after the system finally went live last week.

It is linked to a control centre in Sedgley allowing police to monitor the village, gather evidence and respond more quickly to problems.

Councillor Stuart Turner, ward member for Gornal, said: "I am absolutely delighted the camera has been launched. It has been difficult to secure all of the necessary funding but we have finally got there.

"The village desperately needed CCTV coverage and I am sure it will be of enormous benefit. It is a state-of-the-art camera and being connected to the main control centre means images will be closely monitored."

Councillor Turner said funding came from Dudley Council, West Midlands Police and a community safety grant.

"It has been getting the funding together which has taken up the time," he said. "We had around £21,000 towards the project but we had to bid for the rest."

Fellow Gornal councillor Dave Branwood, who has also campaigned for the camera, said it would make a massive difference in the fight against anti-social behaviour.

A previous camera in the village, not connected to the control centre, was removed as it did not meet requirements.

The new camera was called for after menacing groups started to gather at public benches, which even led councillors to consider removing the benches.

Art in ruins for show at town gallery

A COLLECTION of paintings of romantic ruins, including six never seen before by the public, have gone on display in Dudley.

The exhibition, comprising 51 works, is at Dudley Museum and Art Gallery and admission is free.

There are many pictures of Dudley Castle as well as paintings of Witley Court before it was ravaged by fire in 1937. Other West Midland scenes include Dudley Priory, Halesowen Abbey and Ludlow Castle in Shropshire.

There are also pictures of foreign scenes in France, Germany, Spain and Italy.

In the late 18th century the cult of the picturesque ruin became hugely popular.

Local views in the exhibition include Priory Hall by HR Dickinson and FH Henshaw's View of Dudley from Wrens Nest. Halesowen-born Amos Green is represented by his watercolour Castles in a Landscape.

Dudley Council's John Millar said: "This exhibition showcases some real gems of the Dudley Museum collection."

Payroll donation is big bonus for zoo

Zoo marketing assistant Andrea Hales and Andy Christie of Pertemps in Dudley meet lemurs at Dudley Zoo

TWO ring-tailed lemurs were among the animals to benefit from a recent cash donation to Dudley Zoo from a Black Country employment and training group.

The Dudley workers nominated their local zoo for a donation from their award winning payroll giving scheme.

Andy Christie, who works in the King Street offices of Pertemps People Development Group, made the suggestion to support after getting support from his colleagues and he got to meet the cheeky Lemur Wood boys when he handed over the donation.

"I'm new to the business but thought the scheme was something I wanted to be a part of," said Andy.

"I pass the zoo on my way to work, it's somewhere we all take for granted but I didn't appreciate that it was an educational charity with such a focus on animal conservation."

The company previously supported Dudley Zoo by encouraging staff to see for themselves what a fantastic day out is to be had at the Castle Hill attraction.

"I made a suggestion to our payroll giving scheme and was delighted when a contribution of £315 was agreed," continued Andy. "When you talk of Dudley everyone mentions the zoo, so we're keen to promote it wherever we can."

The company made the gesture as part of its community support programme.

IN MY VIEW

WITH MARK ANDREWS

YOU can tell it's election time when White Dee's antics in Magaluf seems like a pleasant respite from the wall-to-wall platitudes being churned out by our political leaders.

It seems the star of Benefits Street has left her life on the sofa behind, and has found work in the Spanish resort.

Not grafting in an office or factory, you understand. Or even a few shifts serving behind a bar. But, nevertheless, it does appear Dee Kelly has found some kind of gainful employment: knocking back shots in nightclubs, judging wet T-shirt competitions, all the kind of messy, menial work that the locals wouldn't want to do. It's a tough slog, but Magaluf welcomes hard-working immigrants who go there to contribute to the economy.

"I am taking casual work," she admitted. "I won't tell you how much I am earning but it's not half as much as people think."

Incredibly, White Dee has even been tipped for a role in Celebrity Big Brother.

Not that she is quite ready to retire from the benefits lifestyle just yet. According to her agent (yes, really) it is out of the question that Miss Kelly should have her benefits stopped.

"I'm trying to get Dee fit for work," said Barry Tomes, alluding to mysterious healing powers.

"Once she does that, she will be able to earn good money."

Well people less reasonable than myself might wonder how somebody who has an agent, has released a rap record and has had sessions as a DJ in Birmingham nightclubs is not fit for some kind of regular work.

But the one question nobody has bothered to ask is whether Miss Kelly really exists.

Isn't it all a bit convenient that the latest scandal has broken in the same week as the national and European elections? And that David Cameron has taken the opportunity to come out fighting, suggesting that he would personally intervene to ensure White Dee is not claiming benefits she should not be receiving?

Call me a mad conspiracy theorist if you like, but has it ever occurred to anybody that White Dee is not a real person, but an actress working for one of the political parties to whip up as much public anger as possible?

It's the same about former Apprentice candidate Katie Hopkins, who has since carved out a media career making spiteful right-wing comments about anybody who does not fit in with her vision of society. She's got to be working for the Labour Party, surely?

For all we know, there could be a whole network of undercover spin doctors secretly working in the television industry.

There probably isn't, of course. But just because you're paranoid, it doesn't mean they aren't out to get you.

The market where Boparan's career began

The 2 Sisters factory, in Dial Lane, West Bromwich

Supermarkets are flagging up British food

'Chicken king' who reigns on rich list

From butcher's boy to a billionaire he champions British brand, as DANIEL WAINWRIGHT discovers

THEY call him the 'chicken king'. Ranjit Singh Boparan heads a business turning over £3 billion a year supplying poultry to KFC, Sainsbury's and Tesco.

His 2 Sisters Food Group, with factories in Smethwick, West Bromwich and Wolverhampton, is part of a business empire that employs 24,000 people.

It is good going for a former butcher's shop boy from Bilston who left school at 16 with very few qualifications. Mr Boparan and his wife Baljinder have a fortune of £1.3 billion, meaning they top the list of the richest Asians in the West Midlands.

Brand

Various profile pieces about him list the butcher's shop as being in Bilston. Which one, Mr Boparan has not said, although it is believed to be one of the stalls on Bilston Indoor Market. It is understood he began working in the shop at the age of 11.

The 47-year-old champions the idea of a 'British' brand that everyone should work together to promote. But he does not do interviews with the media. His business includes some household names including the fish and chip restaurant chain Harry Ramsden's as well as Northern Foods, the producer of Goodfella's and San Marco frozen pizzas and Fox's Biscuits.

He started the 2 Sisters group in West Bromwich in 1993 with a small loan. Since then the business has grown, acquiring more and more others.

In the year to August 2009, 2 Sisters' sales increased 28 per cent to £649.4 million, with pre-tax profits up 33 per cent to £33.9 million, leaving a £12 million dividend for the family – an impressive feat during a recession. It is now recognised as the country's second largest food production company.

Ranjit Singh Boparan – the West Midlands billionaire promoting British brand

Northern Foods, which also makes Marks & Spencer ready meals, was added to his portfolio in 2011 having seen off a rival based in Dublin. No-one had been able to match Mr Boparan's £342 million cash offer.

With Asda and Morrisons also on the list of companies supplied by 2 Sisters it is no wonder that Mr Boparan has acquired the nickname 'chicken king'. British Airways and Harrods are customers too.

Although profits soared during the recession, the business has not been immune from its ups and downs. 2 Sisters confirmed recently it would be shutting its Solway Foods site in Corby, where 930 people make chilled products such as salads and coleslaws.

Losses within Boparan Holdings, the parent company of which Mr and Mrs Boparan are the sole shareholders, almost doubled in a year to £27.5 million.

Sales were up, however, by 35 per cent to £848 million – boosted by the takeover of meat and chicken processing business Vion a year ago.

In a rare public appearance in February, Mr Boparan took part in a debate held by the National Farmers Union and talked about the importance of a British brand in promoting food produced in the UK. And he would know about what people want and buy, having sold it to them every day in the Black Country.

Former Wolverhampton mayor Bert Turner, a councillor in Bilston, says people remember Mr Boparan working at the market.

"He was on the big meat stall," he says. "He wasn't the owner but he started there working with two or three others."

Example

The President of the Black Country Chamber of Commerce, Ninder Johal, says that Mr Boparan's story is an example of how anything is possible.

He says: "It is brilliant to have such a success story in the Black Country. "It shows that from humble beginnings young people can aspire to get to the very top.

Mrs Boparan plays a major role with the Boparan Charitable Trust, which is based in Birmingham and raises money to help disabled and disadvantaged children throughout the UK.

Also on the board is the couple's son Antonio Singh Boparan. The family was rocked in 2006 when a Range Rover Antonio, then aged 19, was driving crashed into a Jeep, leaving 11-month old Cerys Edwards with brain damage and in need of 24-hour care.

Ranjit and Baljinder Boparan pledged a substantial cash gift to Cerys's family and to set up a trust fund for her and other injured children.

POLITICS

WITH DANIEL WAINWRIGHT

I'M a little worried some people might fall into the trap of thinking that today's vote will make a scrap of difference when it comes to Britain being in or out of the European Union. It won't.

Only the Parliament in Westminster can give us a referendum. Whether you vote Ukip or anyone else today will not amount to a hill of beans on that burning issue.

The debate in recent weeks has turned towards being in or out of the EU. There's enormous concern over just how many of our laws originate in Brussels and whether or not our borders are really ours to control.

What doesn't get picked up on as much is it was the former Labour government that decided to open the borders to Eastern Europeans in 2004 while the Germans and French prevented them from working in their countries until 2011.

That was something that happened in London, not Brussels. It might have started on the continent, but it was our own MPs who chose to enact it.

It would also be easy to find the rest of the debates in the European Parliament about as dull as a Eurovision song contest without the dancing milkmaids.

Some of the subjects MEPs tackle on a daily basis are not exactly going to be the ones that people are talking about over the dinner table.

Websites

Press releases issued by some serving West Midlands MEPs recently have included one who was pleased travel websites have to now give information on how to complain and another who won an award in recognition of his work to ensure exhaust pipes were checked for air pollution.... Yawn.

The EU and its Parliament affects people's lives in many ways. One of the things it enforced was the need for websites to flash up messages asking if people are prepared to accept 'cookies' - those little bits of data sent from a site to the user's browser that lets the site 'remember' them.

Nikki Sinclaire, the former Ukip member who founded her own group called We Demand A Referendum Now used her position to gather more than 100,000 signatures on a petition calling for just that.

But it was the UK Parliament that ended up acting on that petition, debating the matter and then throwing it out.

The people we're choosing to represent us as MEPs can deal with the continent-wide issues on immigration, jobs, investment and the environment. They are not the ones that are going to get us out of or keep us in the union.

That's one for the General Election. You have at least another year of this row to listen to.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Brian Stanley feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Wolverhampton and the surrounding area and Brian is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

A great day out ruined by dog owners

A GREAT visit to Himley Hall — what a great initiative by Dudley Council during the late 1980s to take on full control of this national heritage.

I visited the exhibition and seated on a bench. It was idyllic, the weather, a mother and friend playing with a young baby and toddler on the grass.

Then a puppy sized black coloured terrier type dog, on a long uncontrollable lead, was allowed to run within ten feet of the family group, yapping in delight.

The dog couple, having difficulty controlling their mutt, seemed oblivious to a mother, friend, young baby and toddler enjoying their freedom on the grassed area.

The dog was allowed to aggressively yap at the party, while those in apparent 'control' failed as responsible dog owners to attempt to fulfil their legal responsibilities.

Unfortunately the couple in their late fifties or early sixties allowed their animal to relieve itself, in solid form, less than ten feet from the group that had been allowing the eldest child to crawl around on the cut grass.

There wa s no attempt to retrieve the bowel movement or apologise to the family. They just walked off with the offending, uncontrolled mutt.

As a family, we have owned a number of pets including three dogs and are fully aware that the responsibility morally and legally rests with the owners.

I have passed on the registration number of the car of the 'offenders' in this case to Dudley Council and hopefully the appropriate action will be taken.

Wasting our money on foreign aid

THE NHS is in trouble due to lack of funds.

Old people's nursing homes are closing down due to ack of funds, drugs that could prolong a patient's life, or at least ease some of their suffering, are too costly — yet Cameron insists on sending millions in aid abroad each day.

I'm sure they could find better use for these amounts in England. It should be spent on the NHS and old people.

Next to none of the money of ours that he wastes goes to the people who need it — the despots just pile it in their bank accounts.

Even MPs have said they don't know where the money goes, but I feel sure Mugabe and co do know where it goes.

It's time he was made to stop wasting our money and today's elections could be an important start.

Maglev would beat HS2 for rail speed

YET again our lords and masters have gone off half-cocked. If we must have HS2 why should we rely on outdated technology? Why not make HS2 a Maglev (a British invention)? Has no-one considered this?

At least we would have something a little different to boast about, and we would have a proper high speed line too! 220 mph is nothing when compared to the normal cruising speed of Maglev.

Of course the oil barons and their shareholders would lose out, but let's face it, who cares about them? They make altogether too much money as it is.

And we wouldn't need to import the railway track from Austria (the largest rail factory in Europe, thanks to certain officials) and we wouldn't have to import locomotives and rolling stock either — we could make them all, and the economy would benefit even more.

Just an idea!

Guarantee call on Euro referendum

OUR Dudley South Conservative MP Mr Chris Kelly said in 'The Way I See It' column in Dudley Chronicle on May 8 that his was the only party that would guarantee a referendum, to be held in 2017, on British membership of the European Union.

If as a result of the 2015 General Election, the Tories are given the opportunity to organise a referendum and the decision of the British people is to withdraw from the Europe Union, will he give a cast-iron guarantee that this will happen?

I ask the question because a quality Sunday newspaper recently stated that Mr Cameron had been asked to give this commitment but had refused to do so — allegedly because of pressure from big business interests.

Over to you Mr Kelly.

Group takes a trip back to the 60s

PENN TG

MRS McInnes welcomed everyone to the April meeting and reminded members of the arrangements for the birthday evening in May.

She then introduced the speaker Ray Sturdy to give a slide show taking members on a nostalgic journey through the 60s.

The 60s began with more young people in Europe and America than previously experienced.

The group was reminded of the comedy, food, cars, music, politics, major events like the Coronation and the assassination of President Kennedy and much more. He delivered his talk with humour and great enthusiasm.

The Gardening Group went to Birmingham Library to see the Discovery Terrace and the Secret Garden on the seventh floor and then up again to the Skyline Viewpoint 51 metres above street level.

Anna Marie from Beacon Centre for the Blind was the Social Studies speaker. The Blind Institute was established in 1875. In 1961, seven acres of land was purchased from the Earl of Dudley and in 1963 opened as Beacon Centre for the Blind with day centre, facilities, workshops and a residential care home.

In 2010 most of the buildings were demolished and the New Beacon Centre opened.

On May 28 Derek Wharton will speak on Puppets from Around the World.

STOURBRIDGE FLORAL ART CLUB

THE club meeting on April 7 was a workshop organised by secretary Pam Nixon.

Workshops run by Pam are extremely popular and more than 30 members took part in this particular one. New techniques were tried out by aspidistra leaves being manipulated by weaving in colourful medilina and by using many different types of flowers and foliage a variety of arrangements were created on the same theme by club members.

Handmade greetings cards made and donated by members also on sale as well as floristry merchandise. Refreshments were available and it was a very enjoyable evening.

Stourbridge Floral Arts club offers a warm welcome to visitors as well as to new members. Meetings are on the first Monday of the month, there are 10 meetings each year. At most meetings there is from a professional flower arranger whose repartee is both entertaining and informative. Social visits to venues of interest are also held throughout the year.

Meetings are at The Elton Centre at St John's Road, formerly St John's Church Hall.New members and visitors are welcome. Call 01384 377593 or visit www.stourbridgefloralartclub.co.uk

Honoured former head reaches 100 milestone

BALLOONS, streamers and the classic hits of Glenn Miller helped a decorated former headmistress celebrate her 100th birthday.

Joan Walker became the Black Country's youngest ever headteacher when she took over at St Chad's Catholic Primary School in Sedgley whilst in her mid-20s.

She would go on to serve the school for 35 years, an achievement which was recognised when she was awarded the a rare papal medal in the early 1970s.

Now 'Auntie Joan', as she is lovingly known, has celebrated reaching a landmark birthday with a party at her home at Sunrise Senior Living in Tettenhall, Wolverhampton.

She was joined by friends, family members and other residents for a full day of celebrations, including a special lunch, chocolates, canapés, champagne and a birthday cake.

Songs

Music was provided by Glenn Miller tribute act Moonlight Serenade, who performed a selection of her favourite tunes.

And a special treat awaited the centurian in the evening, when fellow resident Bert Hazell - who himself turned 100 earlier this year - played songs for the birthday girl on his piano.

Geraldine Bunning, events organiser at Sunrise, said: "She is a lovely lady who is very quiet and well mannered.

"When she first came here we found out some builders who were working on her house had called her Auntie Joan and the name just stuck."

Born in London a few months before the outbreak of the First World War, Auntie Joan was educated in Darlington and moved to the Midlands to work becoming headteacher at St Chad's in 1941.

During the Second World War she became a member of the British Red Cross, taking on a role which included managing the vital task of moving evacuees to safe areas of the country during the conflict.

A devout Catholic, her crowning achievement came when she visited Vatican City and received the coveted Benemerenti medal from Pope John XXIII in recognition of her outstanding work educating Catholic children.

She stayed at St Chad's for 35 years, where she gained a reputation as a 'strict but fair' teacher and has a trophy named after her awarded to pupils who uphold the school's ethos. She never married or had children.

College announces £12m construction centre plan

BOSSES behind plans for a £12 million construction training centre in Dudley say they hope it will support the industry's recovery.

The new facility has been earmarked to join other developments in the town's Learning Quarter by Dudley College chiefs.

Officials have revealed the scheme has been included as part of the Black Country Local Enterprise Partnership's bid for £56 million from the Government's Local Growth Fund to support projects across the region.

If successful, building work would begin on the new centre, called CABTech, in September 2015 with the centre opening to students in Spring 2017.

It would include teaching and workshop facilities to train people in both traditional and new construction skills.

Report by Lee Watton

Under current plans the centre would be built next to the Dudley Advance building in Priory Road.

Dudley Advance is the college's new centre for Advanced Manufacturing an Engineering Technology which is due to open this Autumn.

Relocate

Bosses say creating the two specialist centres on Priory Road would bring together skills development and facilities.

The new building would also allow the college to relocate its existing craft and trade skills workshops from its Mons Hill campus into the Learning Quarter.

The Local Enterprise Partnership's funding bid is to support the Black Country Strategic Economic Plan, which aims to make the area a better place to live, learn and work.

Officials said securing funding from the Government through the Local Growth Fund would see the college investment in the town total £50m.

Investment to date has funded a new vocational training centre and A level centre alongside the refurbishment of an existing building into a sculpture workshop.

Two residential properties have been transformed into specialist centres for students with learning difficulties and disabilities.

Dudley College principal Lowell Williams said: "Our ambition to support the recovery of the construction industry in this country is driving this new addition to the Learning Quarter.

"With construction being recognised by the UK Government as one of the 10 key sectors driving economic recovery, it's imperative that current and future workforces are trained and ready to meet the challenges the economic up-turn will bring."

More danger dogs are seized by the police

SCORES of dangerous dogs in the West Midlands were destroyed last year after being seized by police, new figures show.

In the past two years West Midlands Police reported a 50 per cent rise in the number of dogs seized under the Dangerous Dogs Act, including banned breeds and those which attacked people and pets.

The figures released this week revealed the force seized 412 dogs last year, up from 360 in 2012 and 275 in 2011.

A total of 181 of the most dangerous dogs were destroyed in 2013, up 30 per cent from the previous year.

In the first three months of this year another 74 dogs in the region were seized under the Act, 22 of which were destroyed. Dogs are only put down in cases where the owner has been through the courts and found guilty of being in possession of a dangerous dog. It doesn't have to be a banned breed but would have to have attacked someone. Dogs seized by police which haven't been classed as dangerous can be found new homes.

Animal charities have called for 'drastic changes' to legislation in the wake of high profile dog attacks, despite a raft of regulations coming into force making it possible for owners to be prosecuted for attacks on private property.

Canine welfare charity Dogs Trust says the issues are caused by 'problem owners' rather than 'problem dogs'.

Special Bafta award goes to actress Julie

Mum was right said stage and screen actress Julie Walters pictured with her prestigious Academy Fellowship Award

BLACK Country-born actress Julie Walters was presented with the most prestigious honour at the Baftas ceremony on Sunday – an academy fellowship.

Tributes were paid to her long and 'spectacular' career as she was given the final award of the night at the star studded bash.

The 64-year-old star of Educating Rita, Billy Elliot and several Harry Potter movies, said: "Thank you, what a career.

"When I told my mother I wanted to be an actress back in 1969, and it's alright I'm not going to go through every year of my career, she said 'she'll be in the gutter before she is 20'. And she was right. But what a gutter. I've shared that gutter with some of the most amazing and talented people without whom I just wouldn't have had a career."

Walters, from Smethwick, who trained to be a nurse before taking up acting in Liverpool, was presented with the award by friend and fellow actress Celia Imrie.

Placard-plea Paul is back out on the jobs trail

THE man who took to the streets of the Black Country pleading for a job before Christmas is looking for work again.

Paul Hyde from Wolverhampton was finally offered work at Great Plane Alloy in Brierley Hill in February,but his contract recently came to an end.

The 52-year-old says he is now considering taking to the streets again with his home-made sign.

"Anybody can queue for a job, you have to do something that will make you stand out. When you walk along the Wolverhampton ring road with a sign, it shows you are determined to work.

Mr Hyde, who lives in Finchfield Road West, said he had never been unemployed until he was made redundant from Wednesfield-based Eurofast just over a year ago.

He struggled to find work and spent one day before Christmas pounding the pavement around the Chapel Ash Island in the city armed with a home-made placard. Mr Hyde said his low job prospects and dire financial circumstances had driven him into drastic action.

"Mr Hyde said he had worked in a number of trades including as a painter and decorator and a sheet-metal worker.

Sitting is the new smoking

"Sitting is the new smoking" is a frequent headline we're hearing at the moment. And if you work in an office you're likely to spend a lot of time sitting at your desk. Offices, it turns out, can be seriously damaging to your health.

The country's workforce is in considerable pain and last year, almost 31 million days of work were lost due to back, neck and muscle problems, according to the Office for National Statistics.

Today, both our work and home life can include long periods of sitting – on computers, watching TV, driving. All of this contributes to a very harmful picture for our backs and general health.

This is the focus of Optispine, which has back and joint clinics in Wolverhampton, Dudley and Birmingham's Jewellery Quarter.

"Being inactive has such a huge impact on people's health", says Chartered physiotherapist, Davinder Chatha, who heads up the organisation.

"As well as many other health risks, it can lead to musculoskeletal problems, which often have a devastating effect on quality of life."

People with sedentary lifestyles can suffer from a whole range of symptoms, from headaches to back and neck pain, stiff joints to numbness and tingling. To keep well, it's vital to take preventative steps and build lifelong back awareness.

"Prevention is definitely better than cure as I see many patients at the other end of the spectrum, with severe conditions that affect mobility and overall health," adds Davinder.

Optispine's brand new facilities offer the latest and most advanced equipment and techniques, designed to help people specifically with back and joint problems.

Run by a team of physiotherapists, rehabilitation specialists and health professionals, it provides a unique combination of therapies to achieve the best possible results.

The jewel in the crown is the specialised H2O Physio hydrotherapy suite, which features a pioneering underwater treadmill and wellness system.

So, don't just sit there, it's time to take action.

Optispine is offering free spinal screening throughout May to promote better back health.

MP in a meeting with new bosses of Merry Hill centre

THE WAY I SEE IT

Dudley South Conservative MP Chris Kelly takes the stand in our weekly Chronicle column which gives our local representatives the chance to air their views

'I was pleased to hear of the exciting plans for investment the new owners have for this major economic hub'

IN BETWEEN votes in the Commons, I had a very productive meeting with intu, the new owners of Merry Hill, at their offices.

I was pleased to hear of the exciting plans for investment the new owners have for this major economic hub and centre of employment in our area and will be keeping in close contact with them.

I'm really proud to be backing the six Conservative candidates in Dudley South in these local elections.

Today Councillor Patrick Harley, who is also the Leader of Dudley Conservative Group, will be seeking re-election in Kingswinford South. No-one has knocked on more doors or helped more residents than Patrick.

In Wordsley Councillor John Jones has worked really hard on issues from dog fouling on pavements to speeding traffic.

Kingswinford North & Wall Heath has an excellent local candidate in Natalie Neale, who is both a midwife and a local business woman with deep roots and a deep commitment to the area.

Nicola Richards is hoping to represent Brockmoor and Pensnett and is a great, young talent in our area.

Kamran Razzaq is a committed local campaigner and family man and would be a brilliant councillor in Netherton, Woodside & St Andrews. Dan Jones is hoping to represent Brierley Hill in order to bring his commitment and passion for our borough to the Council Chamber.

Remember that polls are open on May 22 from 7am to 10pm. We also have European elections at the same time as the local elections.

If you applied for a postal vote but didn't post it back in time you can take your ballot papers to your local polling station and place them in the ballot boxes.

The latest Electoral Commission donation figures show that the Labour Party remain financially dependent on the trade unions.

Ed Miliband said he'd stand up to his union paymasters like Len McCluskey but he's failed and broken his promise.

Not only have Unite given their biggest ever donation to Ed Miliband, they've also said that further cash depends on getting their demands written into Labour's next manifesto.

Nothing has changed at all. Union bosses are still in the driving seat at Labour HQ.

They are holding the purse strings, selecting the candidates and picking the policies.

And we all know what this means — more borrowing, more spending and more taxes hitting families across the country. It's the same old Labour Party.

Meanwhile, figures from the Office for National Statistics show that our long-term economic plan is working with nearly 1.6 million more people in work since the election.

Labour left nearly half a million more people without a job and Ed Miliband predicted that our economic plan would 'lead to the disappearance of a million jobs'.

But there are now nearly 1.6 million more people in work and unemployment is down 285,000 on the election.

These strong jobs numbers are excellent news and a clear sign that our long-term economic plan is working.

There are now a record number of jobs in Britain. Every job created means another family with more financial security and the prospect of a brighter future.

These remain difficult times for families, who are still feeling the impact of the Great Recession, but the foundations for a broad based recovery are now in place.

The only way to raise living standards is to build on these foundations and keep growing the economy and creating more jobs. The biggest risk to economic security would be abandoning the plan that is delivering this.

Messy hands make tidy sum for charity

A NURSERY in Rowley Regis had fundraising at their fingertips when they painted with their hand prints to raise pounds.

Children at Humpty Dumpty Day Nursery got their hands messy when they took part in a hand painting project to raise money for Cancer Research.

Staff at the child care centre on Marlow Street organised for the children to use paints to colour in a huge picture of Humpty Dumpty but no paintbrushes were allowed and the children got stuck in using their hand prints to bring the nursery character to life.

The event has raised more than £300 for charity Cancer Research and donations are still coming in

The hand painting project was organised by staff over a number of weeks so that all 49 children who attend the nursery could take part.

Claire Brinton at the nursery said: "All the children got involved and really enjoyed getting messy.

"Each child has fundraised themselves and each child was given a sponsorship form.

"The picture is that big we struggled to find space on the floor while we completed it but it was great fun to do. Children used their handprints to colour the whole picture of Humpty sitting on his wall and we are going to display it proudly at the top of our staircase so all the parents can see it."

The nursery for children aged six weeks to preschool is open Monday to Friday. For more information call 0121 561 3902.

Brownies get together to mark centenary

MEMORY LANE
by Will Ackermann

WHEN it was founded a century ago, the Brownies focussed on activities such as sewing and housework.

Nowadays its members can do everything from abseiling and canoeing to scientific experiments and discussing world issues.

Hundreds of Brownies came together this month to learn about and celebrate the organisation's 100-year history.

A total of 291 girls from 21 units within the Brownies' Dudley Division marked the centenary at Black Country Living Museum along with 68 unit leaders.

The youngsters, all aged between seven and 10, sat through an old-fashioned school lesson to learn about how children their age would have been taught 100 years ago.

They were told the story of how the Brownies came to exist around a traditional camp-fire and also enjoyed fairground rides during the day. They put on a colourful parade, walking from the canal-side through the museum grounds in their uniforms and holding flags and banners representing their units, before tucking in to cakes and singing songs.

Smiles

Dudley Division commissioner Edith Jones said: "It's been a wonderful day. Just to go around and see the Brownies' smiles, that's all we want and it tells you that they've had a fantastic day and so have I. It is important for the girls to know about the history."

Emily Barnes, aged 10, from Tividale, who is a member of the 3rd Oakham Brownies, said the Big Brownie Birthday celebrations had been 'totally awesome'.

Doreen Cutler, district commissioner for Dudley East and Oakham, thanked the museum for helping make the day a success.

The Brownies were formed in 1914, four years after The Girl Guides Association, which was launched in response to girls marching through the turnstile at the first Boy Scout Rally at Crystal Palace and demanding 'something for the girls'.

When first established, the organisation was called Rosebuds but the following year it changed its name to Brownies, inspired by the book The Brownies and Other Tales, by Julianna Horatia Ewing.

Brownies joined in the war effort during the First World War, rolling bandages, and collecting books and magazines for injured soldiers. During the Second World War, when many Brownies were evacuated from their homes, some helped raise £50,000 towards the war effort in just one week by cleaning shoes and donating pocket money.

There have been Brownies in Dudley for as long as the organisation has existed.

Life is sweet now boiler relaunched

VISITORS to the Black Country Living Museum can satisfy their sweet tooth as the attraction celebrates the re-launch of its sweet shop boiler.

The skill of sugar boiling has been revived at the Tipton Road museum.

From Saturday until June 1 people will be able to see emonstrations and experience the tastes, the smells and the shapes of the freshly prepared sweet treats including old favourites like pear drops, acid drops and troach sweets.

Heather Finch, sweet making demonstrator at the museum, said: "The smell of the sweet toffee melting on the furnace is delicious and my favourite part of making sweets is rolling the toffee through the 'drop machine' which is like a small mangle, with brass rollers that shape the sweets into ovals, rectangles or even fish shapes."

The sweet shop takes the name of Thomas Cook, who ran a confectionary business at 21 Bond Street, Dudley between 1871 and 1901.

Teenager punched his victim more than 25 times in a drunken attack

A thug punched his helpless victim to the head more than 25 times after a drunken argument, a court was told.

Richard Halford repeatedly rained blows on Jason Poole after the fight broke out at the junction of Tower Street and The Broadway, in Dudley. Wolverhampton Crown Court heard the victim had lashed out first, lunging at Halford and grabbing his throat.

But the hearing was told that Halford's reaction had gone 'far beyond' self-defence and became a 'sustained and vicious attack'.

Halford, 19, of Rowan Rise, Kingswinford, pleaded guilty to one count of assault occasioning actual bodily harm, which happened on February 16. He was sentenced to 10 months in a young offenders' institute suspended for two years and ordered to carry out 200 hours unpaid work. He also has to pay his victim £750 compensation.

Mr Howard Searle, prosecuting, said both men, who did not know each other, had both been drinking at the Malt Shovel pub.

"At some point they came together and started an animated discussion," he said. "The victim gestured for Halford to calm down but then lunged toward the defendant and grabbed his throat. The victim fell backwards with Halford on top."

Mr Searle said Halford had first punched Mr Poole to the head and face three or four times.

Then the pair become entangled and the victim had been punched another 14 times.

Report by Lee Watton

Mr Searle said: "At one time Halford straddled him with his knees on top of the victim's arms, disabling him. He punched him a further 10 times."

Mr Searle said the attack had continued even after Mr Poole had no longer struggled .

Mr Benjamin Nicholls, defending Halford, said: "This was not an unprovoked attack. However that being said my client accepts that what happened could not be described as reasonable self-defence. It was out of character and exacerbated by drink. He has not drunk alcohol since then and is remorseful about what he did."

Judge Peter Barrie said: "You should be thoroughly ashamed of what you did and I think you are. Therefore I am just about persuaded to suspend the prison sentence."

Charity ride is tribute to partner

Len Phipps with fellow Georgina Unit fundraiser Karen Phillips

HE is approaching his 70th birthday but Len Phipps is preparing for a 140-mile cycle ride in tribute to his late partner. The retired sales manager is to ride from the birthplace of Carol McKie in Nelson, Lancashire, to Himley Hall to raise money for Georgina Unit at Russells Hall Hospital.

The couple were together for 13 years and lived in Laburnum Road, Kingswinford, before Mrs McKie was diagnosed with bladder cancer in 2006. She fought bravely against it but died in May last year, aged 66.

Mother-of-three Mrs McKie, an office worker at the Ridgewood High School in Stourbridge, moved to the West Midlands in 1981. To donate visit www.justgiving.com/Len-Phipps2

Pupils and mayor join celebration

SCHOOL children had a history lesson with a difference during a visit to a supermarket.

Pupils from Peter's Hill Primary School in Brierley Hill visited Sainsbury's Amblecote as part of the company's 145th anniversary celebrations.

Staff, who were in Victorian dress, helped the youngsters to take part in a range of activities, which included making artefacts for a corner display and hearing the story of Harry Webb, who was a delivery boy for Sainsbury's in 1912.

Mayor of Dudley Councillor Alan Finch joined in the activities, which also included making peg dolls and learning about the history of the Amblecote area. The mayor also cut a celebration cake.

Store manager Kevin Healy said: "We are proud to be able to celebrate the rich history of Sainsbury's with our local customers and school children."

Museum glows back in time for special night

Paul 'Moggy' Morris breathing fire at the Red By Night event at the Black Country Living Museum on Saturday

THE night sky glowed red like a fiery furnace as a museum showcased life in the industrial heartland of the Black Country.

Families packed into the Black Country Living Museum in Dudley for its Red by Night event under the stars on Saturday.

As the sun set, the fun began as the heritage museum joined other attractions across the country to take part in the annual Museums at Night festival in which attractions open up in the evening. The museum village was alive with colour as darkness descended, with live demonstrations including an impressive fire show outside the Bottle and Glass Inn.

Flames

Hundreds of people gathered around to watch as demonstrator and fire juggler Paul 'Moggy' Morris breathed flames over the heads of the crowds. They had the chance to see many of the museum's main exhibits as they had never seen them before, during darkness.

Candlelight and lamps proved the best way to discover more of the history of the region as many of the houses and shops were lit with an orange glow as people went inside to take a closer look.

The fair's Victorian helter skelter and stalls were illuminated to dazzle visitors to the event as the sounds of the old fashioned organ filled the air. People could also try their hand at traditional games including the coconut shy and tuck into delicious traditional fish and chips.

During the evening Dudley College students put on a range of dramatic performances.

Bizarre fun with Japanese battler

PS3 Games

FANS of fast and furious fighting games can get their kicks (and punches and explosions) in the delirious JoJo's Bizarre Adventure: All-Star Battle, in Europe exclusively for PlayStation 3 and Playstation Network.

Anyone thinking this is just a Street Fighter clone should think again, as this eye-poppingly vibrant arcade style 2D beat-em-up is in a league of its own.

Based on hugely popular Japanese manga (comics) JoJo's Bizarre Adventure: All-Star Battle (12, Bandai Namco Games) brings the feverishly imaginative world of manga to life.

A screenshot from JoJo's Bizarre Adventure: All-Star Battle

Arcade

Just like in the original books, which sold in their multi-millions in Japan, fans can follow the Story Mode to discover the fate of the Joestar family. Or go straight to Arcade Mode to match up some of the most bizarre and plain weird characters ever to taunt an opponent before delivering a drop-kick.

There is also a Customisation Mode for those who want to let their own imagination run riot and a Campaign Mode for those who like the long game.

In Online Mode gamers can test out their best combos against players around the world (except Japan, because maybe they're just too darn expert).

Games based on JoJo's Bizarre Adventure have been around since the 1990s but safe to say this latest addition to the franchise from Japanese developer CyberConnect2 takes things to a whole new level of crazy and compulsive action.

If manga and games overlap brilliantly in JoJo's battle, Japanese anime (animation) and games don't sit quite so well together in another PS3 title from the Land of the Rising Sun, Short Peace: Ranko Tsukigime's Longest Day (16, Bandai Namco Games).

This title combines on its disc four short animated films by leading anime directors and will be essential for fans of the genre, which has a cult following in the UK. But the arcade game by developer Crispy's!Inc and Suda 51 is less vital.

The rather voyeuristic approach to the cartoon schoolgirls is a little creepy in the introduction, as it sets the scene for schoolgirl assassin Ranko's revenge mission against her own father.

The side-scrolling 2D game that follows is somewhat underwhelming but it does benefit from outlandish imagination as Ranko has to race at high-speed to avoid demonic attackers and mow down enemies in her way.

It is a triumph of style over substance but I am not sure how long it would be before the weirdness is not enough to keep a player interested.

Tales Of Symphonia is a Japanese role playing game that's been around since the days of the GameCube but has never looked better than on this PS3 release.

Tales Of Symphonia Chronicles (12, Bandai Namco Games) combines a high-definition remaster of the PS2 version of the game with its Dawn Of The New World sequel that was designed originally for the Wii.

And for the authentic experience you can choose the Japanese dub for Lloyd and Colette's quest rather than the irritating US voice over.

Webslinging

The Amazing Spider-Man 2 (16, Activision) is a little less than amazing and Batman continues to be the only superhero with video games that live up to the legendary name.

However, this movie tie-in's web slinging arrangement on the triggers of the controller makes swinging around an open-world Manhattan exhilarating fun as you track down Uncle Ben's killer. The game is available for all major formats.

Buddy's musical legacy raves on

Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story, Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton

ON February 3, 1959, the world lost Charles Hardin Holley. But Don McLean was wrong. It was not the day the music died. Buddy's legacy lives on.

Buddy the stage show is celebrating 25 years, itself an indication of the influence the man had on the music scene. It's the story of the tragedy of an untimely death yet from the wreckage came some of the greatest music ever heard. And Oh, Boy! How this show delivered. — Heartbeat, That'll be The Day, Peggy Sue and Rave On, a constant reminder of Holly's talent.

Here was a man ahead of his time. In Glen Joseph, this Grand production, which runs until Saturday, has a man who has the looks, personality and sound of Buddy off to a tee. He was ably supported by a superb cast, who all deserve acclaim.

There was the odd laugh providing a light-hearted touch at what is ultimately a poignant look at a too short-lived existence.

Who cannot fail to be moved by such songs as it Doesn't Matter Anymore, Raining In My Heart and True Love Ways?

With a well-deserved standing ovation at the end., this faultless show is a must-see for Buddy Holly fans.

EofE get McBusted showcase

McBusted, EofE, LG Arena

STARS in the making Dudley band EofE were best of three supports for McBusted as they caught the ears of 13,000 with a mash-up of Michael Jackson's Billie Jean with Nirvana's Smells Like Teen Spirit.

It nicely warmed up the crowd of McFly and Busted fans as 17-year-old singer Tom Harris, of Netherton, proved a plucky frontman, whilst Dan Bremner, 19, of Gornal, was adept at classic rock guitar poses. They impressed alongside other up-and-comers Young Brando and Hollywood Ending. EofE showcased new single Lust and free download Kiss Me Like You Mean It.

McBusted feature six of the two bands' original seven (ex-Busted frontman Charlie Simpson is resolutely solo). McFly shot out of the stage as the Busted duo arrived in a Back To The Future DeLorean to play a 100 minute set featuring all the hits from Air Hostess and Year 3000 to 5 Colours In Her Hair and Obviously. They do it all again on Tuesday.

Wolverhampton teens Callum Osbourne and Harry Ondrak-Wright in Lord of the Flies

Savage energy on display as schoolboys go wild in theatre

Lord of the Flies, Birmingham Hippodrome

CHOREOGRAPHERS Matthew Bourne and Scott Ambler take William Golding's novel about schoolboys reverting to tribal violence on a jungle island and relocate it in an abandoned theatre where the boys are trapped when sheltering from a riot.

It meant his New Adventures dance company made full use of the Hippodrome, though confusingly the setting still echoed to jungle sounds. The stranded party of well-drilled uniformed schoolboys rapidly turned into a feral gang of swaggering bullies with painted faces, whooping and grunting as they hunted younger or more timid boys.

The production featured 22 amateur dancers from the Midlands and it was to their credit that, apart from their youth, you could not easily tell them from the New Adventures professionals. Take a bow Black Country boys Brad Guest, Dereece Leigh-Gayle, Declan Lewis, Harry Ondrak-Wright, Callum Osbourne.

Bourne's ballet has menace, especially a dream scene where pig-masked hoodies manhandle one of the boys, and a stunning score of propulsive music by Terry Davies.

Dubrovnik, The Dalmatian Coast and Montenegro

Pick of the week

Eight days various departure dates

PRICE FROM £829

Croatia is simply one of Europe's best-kept secrets with its matchless blend of history, Mediterannean ambience and stunning natural beauty.

Dubrovnik is a baroque city nesting behind huge ramparts. The main avenue is completely paved with marble and throughout the city there is an array of monasteries, beautifully decorated churches and civic buildings dating back to the 14th century. During the visit there is a guided walking tour followed by time to explore at leisure.

Be amazed at the views taken in en route to one of Europe's newest countries, Montenegro. The first stop is the town of Kotor, walled with a labrynth of cobbled streets surrounding its orthodox cathedral, followed by a visit to the medieval town of Budva.

Other places on the itinerary include, The Krka Valley, home to an eye-catching series of lakes where water cascades from one to the next in a series of interlocking waterfalls and cataracts; the town of Split, principally famous for a single building – the huge palace of the Emperor Diocletian, where there is a guided tour of this fascinating complex; the citadel of Trogir, one of the most charming ports in Dalmatia plus the ancient town of Mostar, with its 16th century mosques, Turkish houses and 19th century town hall and amazing bridge linking the two halves of the old town.

Garden guru loves getting hands dirty

HOME AND GARDEN

TV gardening guru Alan Titchmarsh is looking forward to getting his hands dirty at RHS Chelsea Flower Show this weekend.

Instead of wearing a sharp suit to present the show, for the first time in 30 years, he will be wearing a pair of gloves and designing a garden instead.

Obviously, there's a substantial chance it will be rather good too – not only is Titchmarsh one of the country's best-known gardening presenters, but back in 1985, when Titchmarsh last designed a garden at the prestigious Chelsea, he was awarded an RHS Gold Medal for his Country Kitchen garden.

Volunteers

He will also be joining forces with another RHS Chelsea Flower Show Gold Medal winner, Kate Gould, to create From The Moors To The Sea – a celebration of 50 years of the RHS Britain in Bloom campaign, to represent how 300,000 volunteers help to make Britain bloom and explore Alan's relationship with horticulture through his life.

"It's 50 years since I started work as an apprentice, so I thought I could either do a 1960s-style garden through to the 21st century, but the sixties were a bit dull, all rose beds and lawns.

"So I thought, why don't I demonstrate where I first started, which was the Yorkshire moors, up to where I garden now, on the coast on the Isle of Wight?

"So we will be sloping from moorland at the back, with dry stone walls, coming down to a seaside garden at the front. It's 50 years of 'my journey', to use the X Factor phrase.

"It's also showing the British Isles and its variety. Being a cool temperate set of islands, the range we can grow is incredibly wide and this will show the richness of the British Isles."

He'll be featuring pines, heathers and birches from the moorland, through wild flowers, down to seaside plants including echiums and cabbage palms. It will be a 10m by 15m microcosm of British gardens and landscapes. It sounds great, but how does Titchmarsh feel about not presenting the Chelsea coverage for the first time in 30 years?

Last year Titchmarsh announced he was stepping down from the BBC's coverage of Chelsea after programme-makers offered him a more 'limited' role, although he remains RHS vice president and first ambassador.

Alan is enjoying producing his own exhibit for the show

Criteria

"[I feel] wonderful," he insists. "I'm putting a show garden together – I've done it before and I love doing it. It's technically an exhibit but will look like a show garden. It's not being judged but the same criteria and standard of finish will have to be there. I've moved on, there was disappointment but it's gone, I'm over it. There's no point in dwelling on things."

Get ready to clean up on barbecue funtime

A SPRING clean and safety check of your gas barbecue can help prevent unforeseen issues on summer days when you and your grill want to be on 'hot' form.

The following tips will have you and your barbecue in top grilling condition before you know it.

Tools for the Job

You wouldn't cook in a dirty kitchen, so why would you grill on a dirty barbecue? To deep clean your grill you will need the following products: A brass wire brush, small bucket of hot water, washing up liquid, a venturi brush (flexible wire brush with cleaning bristles), a 1.5mm (1/16") drill bit, replacement grease cups, spatula, stainless steel cleaner and fine sandpaper.

Clean inside and out

Detach burners. Pass venturi brush through them to force out blockages, then brush tops using wire brush. Check all burner ports to ensure they are opened. If some are closed with food use a 1.5mm drill bit to open them.

Sear plates and cooking grates. Wash with hot soapy water then brush top side of grates with little oil to re-season them. External Base and sides of grill: Use hot soapy water to remove grease. Lids: On porcelain lids a thorough washing should suffice, for stainless steel lids, a stainless steel cleaner should be used. Once dry, brush the cast aluminium with olive oil. Internal base of grill: Use spatula to scrape grease from inside all the way down towards the drip pan. Remove the drip pan and give it a good wash and be sure to replace the tin foil grease catcher.

Inspect for Damage

Visually inspect all hoses and feed tubes on your grill. Look for any damage; if you detect any, it is time to replace the hoses.

Sun is shining – time to dust off that barbecue and get the family round

Check for Leaks

A leak test is ideally performed annually and certainly any time a grill has been in storage for a prolonged period or when grill components are changed.

Ready for Ignition

Finally check out how it lights. For battery ignitions it is a good idea to replace the batteries. Check all electrode and ignition leads and ensure tips of electrodes are clean. Use sandpaper to clean them. For more information visit www.napoleongrills.co.uk

BLOCKBUSTER musical Barnum and a comedy that has taken the theatre world by storm are coming to Wolverhampton Grand Theatre, which has annouced it's winter season.

Panto favourite Brian Conley is one of the stars on his way to the Lichfield Street venue as 'the greatest showman on earth' in a revival of the hit musical Barnum, which will visit the city in late January.

Conley is no stranger to the Midlands as a regular in panto at Birmingham Hippodrome and having starred in drag as Edna Turnblad when Hairspray came to the Grand.

The National Theatre's madcap farce One Man, Two Guvnors will run at the Grand from March 16 to 21 with the lead role, first played by James Corden, being taken by Shaun Williamson, who will be starring alongside fellow former EastEnders regular Emma Barton.

Meanwhile, tickets are already selling fast for this year's panto Cinderella which will star Julian Clary. He will be joined by Joe Tracini, Hollyoaks actor and son of last year's pantomime star Joe Pasquale.

The show at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, May 29, is in aid of the city's Central Youth Theatre.

The show will be compered by Perrier award winner Daniel Kitson. 50 Years of BBC2 Comedy (BBC2, 9pm)

BBC Two's 50th birthday backslapping began in April, but who can blame the powers-that-be for making the most of its milestone anniversary? As this programme reminds us, when it comes to comedy, the channel has a lot to celebrate. Right from the start, BBC Two was the home of groundbreaking and iconic shows – in its first year alone, it gave us The Likely Lads and Not Only... But Also. This year's W1A proved, BBC Two isn't afraid to laugh at itself either, but for tonight, a who's who of British comedy – including Ricky Gervais, Eric Idle, Michael Palin, Terry Jones, Vic and Bob, The Goodies, Ian Hislop, Sarah Millican and Prunella Scales will be singing the channel's praises and discussing their own contributions to five decades of laughs.

The British Soap Awards 2014
(ITV, 8.15pm)
It's a tense time for soap fans – there's the ongoing mystery of who killed Lucy Beale on EastEnders, and Coronation Street is launching a whodunit of its own this week. Pick of the Week

Family matters to Gabriel in new series

Gabriel Byrne may have lived in the States for some time, but when he was offered the chance to return to Dublin for this new series, he jumped at it – and it's little wonder.

Based on John Banville's thrillers, the series has gone down a treat in its native, but now the Beeb has snapped it up, in a major Anglo-Irish co-production, we get to see for ourselves what all the fuss is about. And if you like your thrillers dark and mysterious, it won't disappoint.

Quirke opens in the late autumn of 1956, where a hungover city pathologist known only as 'Quirke' (we never get to know his Christian name) stumbles from a late-night party in the nurses' quarters. He hopes to sleep in his subterranean pathology lab. However, his adoptive brother, obstetric consultant Malachy Griffin, is at our hero's desk completing paperwork for Christine Falls, a recently deceased patient.

When Quirke returns the following morning, Christine's body is gone and the medical expert is curious about his brother's strange behaviour. Further investigation suggests Mal was the father of Christine's child, and he believes the youngster has been spirited away to America under the wing of the Catholic Church.

Quirke follows the trail to Boston, accompanying Mal's daughter – Quirke's niece Phoebe – on a last visit to her ailing grandfather. He eventually uncovers the truth about a family secret that has remained buried for nearly two decades.

Byrne explains of his alter ego: "I think that most people can relate to a wounded past. Some people are more adept at dealing with it, and some people are much more delicate and sensitive and I think Quirke is one of those people who hides his vulnerability and his pain underneath and exterior of detachment.

"His work as a pathologist; I always thought he was much at home among the dead than he is with the living and for him, in a strange way, the dead are still living creatures and he's the last one really to take care of them so that space where he works is very sacred to him."

It helps that Byrne's passionate about the genre in which the series falls, as he says: "Mystery and enigma are fascinating because it forces the audience to raise questions about the character. That's not to say that all characters are enigmatic and mysterious - some are very obvious - but I like the idea of hiding in plain sight and allowing the audience to play that game with you."

Like Jack Reacher fans smarting over the fact Tom Cruise played their giant of a literary hero a couple of years ago, fans of the Banville novels may take umbridge at the fact Gabriel isn't 6ft 4in, doesn't have the feet of a dancer or blond hair. It scarcely matters. Byrne is compelling in the lead, and with a supporting cast including Michael Gambon, you know you're in safe hands.

Gabriel Byrne heads the cast of Quirke, Sunday, BBC1, 9pm

Best of the Rest

MONDAY
Britain's Got Talent
ITV, 7.30pm
Ant and Dec present the first live semi-final, which sees nine of the 45 chosen acts compete to impress the judges and secure the all-important viewers' vote. At stake is the chance to appear at this year's Royal Variety Performance and win a life-changing cash prize of £250,000, but first the contestants have to win one of two coveted places available in the final. And if things don't go to plan on stage, the hopefuls can still be buzzed off - so the pressure is on to prove they've got what it takes

What the Dambusters Did Next
Channel 5, 9pm
What better film for a Bank Holiday Monday than a rousing, fact-based wartime drama? The Dam Busters certainly meets that remit, and sure enough Channel 5 are treating us to that classic Michael Redgrave and Richard Todd flagwaver this evening. But have you ever wondered what became of the brave pilots of 617 Squadron after Operation Chastise, the famous May 1943 raids on the Ruhr and Eder valleys? This documentary combines archive footage, testimony from veterans and experts, and dramatic reconstructions to recap the events of 1943, and examine some of the squadron's subsequent missions. They include a daring night-time bombing raid on a strategically important canal, during which the crews faced a ferocious barrage of anti-aircraft defences.

TUESDAY
Welcome to Rio
BBC2, 9pm
You'd have to have been living under a very large, soundproofed rock to have not noticed that the world is football mad this year, thanks to the 2014 World Cup – and all eyes are on Rio de Janeiro. But this stunning series isn't about the football – it's about the lives of the city's residents, and the daily goings-on in the favelas. As Rio prepares for the World Cup and the Olympics, the Brazilian government has launched a military campaign to wrest control of the areas from drugs gangs; a process known as Pacification. This first instalment comes from one of the first favelas to be pacified, Cantagalo, and one of its residents, Rocky, is a delivery man who works everyday, hauling fridges, ovens and televisions on his shoulders, to support his family.

WEDNESDAY
Del Boys & Dealers
BBC1, 9pm
It's probably a bit unfair to describe the people featured on this programme as 'Del Boys.' You could, however, argue that some of them are a tad eccentric. Take Sharon and Al, for instance. They usually deal in novelty goods and use a hearse as their premier mode of transport – perhaps they're big fans of The Munsters. They're travelling to France in it this week, where they hope grab some great deals at a local auction, despite not knowing the lingo. Canterbury women Stevie and Denise have a more down-to-earth approach to raising funds – they bought a bundle of second-hand clothes at auction and are literally hoping to turn rags to riches via a market stall.

THURSDAY
Meet the Police Commissioner
Channel 4, 9pm
Just two years ago, police forces up and down the country felt the biggest shake-up for 50 years when elections resulted in the appointment of 41 Police and Crime Commissioners – a venture which cost £75million, but strangely enough, resulted in the lowest voting turnout since the Second World War. Consequently, the small turnout meant that some obscure, perhaps 'eccentric' candidates were voted in. This Cutting Edge documentary hears from Ann Barnes, Police and Crime Commissioner for Kent, who was initially against the introduction of PCCs, adamant that the whole idea was naïve. However, she later decided to offer herself forward as a potential for the role. Her first year in office has been tumultuous, to say the least...

Live International Football, Friday, ITV, 7.30pm

Burning Desire: The Seduction of Smoking
BBC2, 9.30pm
Despite a growing number of people trying to quit with latest trending aids, cigarettes are still big business. Given that, Peter Tayler is a man on a mission. In this new series, the journalist and documentary-maker travels to Australia to look at the industry's last-ditch attempt to prevent plain packaging. He is allowed rare access to the world's second biggest tobacco company, and explores the reason behind the fact that on a daily basis, thousands of young people around the world are still being seduced by the allure of smoking.

FRIDAY
Live International Football
ITV, 7.30pm
England welcome Peru to Wembley Stadium for their final home friendly before the World Cup. Roy Hodgson's men also have fixtures arranged with Ecuador and Honduras before their campaign in Brazil gets under way against Italy, and the players will be looking to ensure they put themselves in pole position to start against the Azzurri. Among those who will be particularly desperate to impress the manager are Raheem Sterling, Adam Lallana and Ross Barkley, who have all enjoyed strong Premier League campaigns but are yet to become regular starters for their country. The performances of left-backs Leighton Baines and Luke Shaw also seem likely to generate a lot of interest in the build-up to the finals, as their domestic form convinced Hodgson there was no place in the squad for long-time international stalwart Ashley Cole.

Honda's automatic miracle

By John Griffiths

And now for something completely different: well, for me anyway.

Honda's new and much improved NC750S was designed to be a new style of fun but user-friendly form of two wheeler with the option of a hi-tech automatic gearbox. And it certainly adds a new dimension to motorcycling.

If you have any preconceptions about auto gearboxes based on the traditional continuously variable transmissions (CVT) used on small scooters then forget it.

Honda's DCT system much more responsive, quicker and more efficient. It's an electronically-controlled dual clutch system very similar to the 'DSG' used in Audis, VWs and some high performance sports cars.

It was first revealed about four years or so ago as an option on the big VFR1200 and the NC700, and that now fitted to the NC750 is effectively the second generation, mated in this case to a bike with more power and torque than its predecessor.

This was the first time that I had ridden a bike with this system and found it something of a revelation. It is almost, if not impossible, to stall, it's silky smooth and snatch-free at low speeds and one of the easiest bikes I've ever ridden.

Add to that its light weight, low centre of gravity and excellent balance, and it's ideal for town traffic as well as rewarding on the open road, too.

It wasn't built for sports bike performance, with a modest 54bhp from its 750cc twin cylinder engine. But that is 75cc larger than its NC750 predecessor and therefore comes with a useful extra helping of power and torque for surprisingly peppy performance.

The NC750S is an adventure style machine with a particularly comfortable saddle and upright riding position, providing comfort and an excellent view ahead. If you don't fancy the styling Honda has used the same underpinnings for the Integra – a big scooter – or the trailee styled 750X.

There's a lot of innovative design involved, particularly in making the 750cc twin one of the lightest engines of its kind. It's also fitted with balancer shafts which very successfully smooth out vibrations.

Once on the move I couldn't actually hear the engine above the wind in my helmet (the flip front kind which is, admittedly, notoriously noisy). That's a shame since while pulling away the slow 'thump thump' of a big twin was pleasantly nostalgic for those of us around in the Sixties.

The Honda also differs from most competitors in that it has a 'boot'. The fuel tank is under the seat, and what appears to be a tank in front of the saddle is in fact a lockable cargo space big enough to take a full-face helmet.

On the auto version, manual or auto gearchange mode is selected with a trigger switch on the right hand grip, while a thumb switch selects neutral, drive or sport modes.

Honest

With your left hand (which, of course, has no clutch to worry about) you use either a finger or thumb for manual up or down changes. To be honest, I didn't bother much as for a riding style which goes with this kind of bike the auto mode is perfectly suited.

For the die-hards amongst us, a foot pedal for manual gearchanging is an optional extra.

In Drive mode the electronics get you into top (sixth) gear as soon as possible – usually under 40mph and will hold you there as long as it can. I found it the best choice around town and on the motorway, and it would no doubt reduce the risk of spinning up the back tyre in the wet.

There is the equivalent of a 'kick down' for overtaking. Give the throttle a determined twist of the wrist and the electronics interpret your intentions, changing down one or two gears probably as quickly as most riders for a burst of acceleration.

Or you could just press the 'down' button a couple of times, of course.

Gear shifting is seamless at any speed adding to the bike's characteristic smoothness.

In Sport mode the gearbox hangs on to the lower gears for longer and to higher revs – you usually need to pass 60mph to get top for example – to make more of the Honda's performance potential.

I found it better than 'drive' for more challenging, twisty roads as it also changes down more readily, giving you more engine braking while setting up for a bend or roundabout. And more flexible drive and acceleration out the other side, naturally.

Drive mode is obviously the economical option, with a remarkable 81.6mpg average claimed for the NC750S.

That's Honda's figure but I don't doubt its accuracy. I chose some of the most challenging b-roads I know on the Welsh borders for the test ride, and even in Sport mode still averaged over 74mpg.

The bike's low centre of gravity and excellent frame make it a nimble, really 'flickable' machine, unlike some of the bigger, heavier enduro machines, which really flattered my riding style.

The NC750 has only one, instead of the usual two, discs at the front but braking is nevertheless well up to stopping a machine of this weight.

It probably won't appeal to the sports bike enthusiast, but with its user-friendly nature and economy, particularly around town, it may well tempt a few commuters on to two wheels.

Top award for Merc S-Class

The Mercedes S-Class has been voted 'Best Executive Car' in the 2014 Diesel Car, Car of the Year Awards.

In announcing the award, Ian Robertson, editor and publisher of Diesel Car magazine, said: "It's the kind of car you'll want to drive yourself, thanks to alert steering, great composure through the bends, enormous grip and an impressively supple ride."

Among the innovations on the new S-Class is the option of Magic Body Control – making it capable of detecting bumps in the road ahead and adjusting the suspension accordingly.

The S-Class is available with a choice of four-, six-, eight- or 12-cylinder engines, two hybrids and two wheelbases.

The awarded S 350 BlueTEC generates 258hp, returning 51.4mpg with emissions of 146g/km CO2. It sits alongside the S 300 BlueTEC Hybrid returning 61.4 mpg with emissions of 120g/km CO2, generating 204hp, with additional 27-kW electric engine.

The S-Class, which remains the UK's most popular luxury car based on registration figures issued by the SMMT, focuses on three engineering priorities: 'Intelligent drive' – encompassing a host of new comfort and safety systems, 'efficient technology' – setting a new benchmark with combined fuel consumption of up to 61.4mpg and a cd figure of 0.23, and 'essence of luxury' – where the highest perceived quality underpins the high standards throughout this flagship model.

Double success for Fiat

Trade Van Driver, the UK's top van magazine for small business users, has named the Fiat Professional line-up 'Best Trade Van Range' in the Trade Van Driver Awards.

The magazine, which is the only publication to cater specifically for owner-drivers and small fleet operators, also named the Fiat Doblò Work Up as the 'Best Small Pick Up' in the 2014 awards.

Both trophies were presented to Sebastiano Fedrigo, director, Flat Professional UK, by Matthew Eisenegger, editor of Trade Van Driver, at the 2014 Commercial Vehicle show, at The NEC Birmingham.

Adjudicated not only by a team of expert TVD journalists but also by a panel of readers who use light commercial vehicles as an integral part of their businesses, the awards offer a true reflection of the sentiments of those customers who use their commercial vehicles day to day.

Commenting on the Fiat Professional range, the panel noted: "The needs of trade users are many and varied, and Fiat Professional has taken massive strides in the past few years towards fulfilling all those requirements. Fiat Professional offers a superb range of models and has a real 'can do' attitude towards trade buyers."

Commenting on the second successive win for the Fiat Doblò Work Up, the jury noted that since winning last year "…no-one has come up with a better alternative."

NOTICE TO READERS
Please be aware that when purchasing a puppy there are some simple guidelines you can follow to ensure that you are not purchasing from a Puppy Farmer:

2. Do not arrange to collect a puppy from any other location than that of the breeder.
3. Ensure that you are given any KC documentation, if pedigree.
Whilst Midland News Association publications take great care to avoid publication of advertisements from Puppy Farmers we cannot accept any liability should readers purchase from this kind of establishment.

Days of wine and prizes for runners

Running

ATHLETES from Dudley Kingswinford Running Club certainly made hay while the sun was shone this weekend and claiming the prizes although rather than a trophy cabinet it may be a wine rack that is needed based on what the runners received.

On Saturday the blue hoops registered a team in the British Masters Road Relays Championships.

The event held at a sun-drenched Sutton Park attracted teams from around the country with Altrincham AC, Les Croupiers from South Wales and Salford Harriers claiming the medals in the M35 age group.

DK finished in 32nd place on the day.

Their six legs of three miles taking a total of 1.58.32 with Phil Smith clocking 20.17, Mark Judge 20.27, Dave Norman 18.50, Richard Jones 19.49, Graham Wildgoose 19.54 and Gary Bonner in 19.15.

Twenty four hours later a small group of DK runners travelled the short distance towards Hagley to take part in the Cobra Classic 10k road race event.

A testing road race where the first half is flat and even slightly downhill but the second half more than makes up for it as the course rises steeply and the runners would be better off with mountain climbers' crampons rather than trainers.

This adds a good three or four minutes to a standard 10k time as the lactic acid builds up in the legs and runners are reduced to a shuffle because of the incline.

Dave Norman was first back in 13th place in 42.38 in his second race of the weekend, Graham Wildgoose claimed the 1st MV50 place in 23rd in 45.36, Helen Tromans also claimed an age group prize bagging 1st FV40 in 24th place in 45.59, Mark Homer finished in 47.26 for 29th place, Mark Judge was 38th in 49.25, Carol Fisher was 1st FV50 and 59th overall in 55.00 and Debbie Richards was 82nd in 1.02.22.

Elsewhere in deepest Shropshire Preston Grundy completed the Wenlock Olympian Society Marathon in 7.16.57.

Taking on the shorter version Dave Hickman was 25th in 2.03.46 to claim the 1st MV50 medal and Dave Fennell finished in 2.04.35 in 29th place to claim the MV50 2nd place.

Wissing whizzing along for Beacon

Tales from the Bratch

SOUTH African import Richard Wissing was in red-hot form as Beacon bagged a winning draw from their Staffs Clubs Premier Division clash with Hammerwich.

Wissing made the most of a good batting track by belting a superb 151 to lead Beacon to a total of 272-6 from their 50 overs.

Spinner Matthew Briggs then led the push for victory with 5-45 while Wissing claimed 2-15 with his off-spin, but Hammerwich held on for a draw as they closed on 158-8 in response.

Michael Hartwell continued his impressive start to the season by top scoring with 93 for Beacon's seconds in their clash with Hammerwich.

But Hartwell's efforts couldn't force a victory as Beacon finished on 191-5 in reply to Hammerwich's 211-9.The third team went down by six wickets to Springhill. Matthew Baker (36no) was the stand out batsman for Beacon as they reached just 105.

There was no joy for Beacon's Sunday sides as the firsts and seconds tasted defeat at the hands of Stourbridge. The firsts lost a thriller at Stourbridge as the hosts won on the last ball .

My time at Wolves was hell, says Bjorn

Football

WOLVES outcast Bjorn Sigurdarson has lifted the lid on his Molineux nightmare, calling it "hell".

The 23-year-old forward is currently resurrecting his career on loan at Molde, where he will be until their season ends in November.

Sigurdarson was one of four strikers head coach Kenny Jackett allowed to leave in January with Kevin Doyle, Leigh Griffiths and Jake Cassidy. And the Icelandic attacker, who has scored two goals in five games for the Tippeliga leaders, is relieved to be back on familiar territory after revealing he felt he had been made to feel inferior at Wolves.

"To show you actually can play, not just sit on the bench and such, is fantastic for me," said Sigurdarson, speaking in Norway.

"Of course you'll doubt yourself when you're not used, absolutely.

"When the manager doesn't like you, no matter what you do or how good you are in training, you get the message: 'No, you're not in the squad'.

"You're not good enough. Then you just want dig yourself under the grass. It becomes hell. So it was fantastic that Molde wanted me and that I got to go back."

For Wolves, Sigurdarson found the net twice in 16 league appearances last season, his final game coming in the 3-3 draw at Rotherham on December 21 after which he played no part in the following seven matches before his move.

Sigurdarson also admitted he struggled to make friends in the Wolves squad.

"I feel at home here," he said. "These are great guys. In England you don't make friends in the team. Here we eat together and socialise in the evenings. In England they maybe will go and have a drink together, but this is different. I feel my career is on the right track again."

Meanwhile, Wolves have started a coaching restructure which has left the futures of Steve Weaver and Mick Halsall shrouded in doubt.

The long-serving pair have been told by head of football development Kevin Thelwell that a 'process' has started in the coaching department of reducing the workforce and are set for a further meeting this week when their futures will become clearer.

At least one other member of the coaching staff could be involved in the reshuffle with development coach Weaver and Under-18s coach Halsall.

Employment law means Wolves won't confirm what is going to happen to the duo at the moment.

But the club confirm they have entered into a process of restructuring its coaching.

Bugner back in Blighty for dinner speech

Joe Bugner and Earnie Shavers, left, square-up during their visit to Wolverhampton Boxing Club

IT was a case of no place like home for heavyweight great Joe Bugner when he dropped in to Wolverhampton Boxing Club with fellow former fighter Earnie Shavers.

It was a whistle-stop at the gym, before the pair moved on to the city's Novotel Hotel for an after-dinner speaking slot on a show promoted by Gary Bate.

Hungarian-born Bugner's family relocated to Britain when he was a boy and he went on to become a three-time European heavyweight champion, plus a two-time British and Commonwealth titleholder.

He said: "It's great to be back in England among proper boxing fans, I consider this place my home even though I am enjoying the sunshine in Australia. It's like catching up with old friends!"

A world crown eluded Bugner until he picked up the WBF belt at 48 but he shared a ring with legends like Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier, before the 64-year-old retired for pastures new.

Shavers also fought 'The Greatest' in a points loss but had him in all sorts of trouble when they also boxed for his WBA and WBC belts in 1977, in what was termed 'Ali's Desperate Hour'.

Losing toss sets the tone of match

Stourbridge 2nd XI 104
Bromsgrove 2nd XI 306-4
(Bromsgrove win)

Losing the toss did not help skipper Mikesh Patel taking on Bromsgrove one of the top sides in the Division two 2nd XI South.

Heat came from the bat of No.3 Duncan Roke who piled up 176 with 21 fours and eight sixes.

Things did go from bad to worse for the home skipper as his side collapsed at 104 on the 35th over. Opener Alex Spence 26 and James Winders 39 were the backbone to the Stour's brief innings that contained six ducks.

Club aims for 14,500 ticket mark

WOLVES have announced plans to target the 14,500 barrier for season tickets – by dropping prices to lower than when they were last in the Championship.

The club hope the cost structure will push the current total of 11,940 season ticket holders up by another 2,560 to 14,500.

At the moment, 88 per cent of current holders have renewed and more were taken on in the 'Join The Pack' campaign.

Adult fans buying their seats now will pay £370 behind the goals as opposed to £320 under the Early Bird scheme launched in March, which represents a rise of 15.6 per cent, with prices effectively going up from £14 to £16 per game.

Big gap in league TV perks

WOLVES might be record-breaking League One champions – but they are paupers when it comes to this season's TV revenue.

The release of payments to Premier League clubs shows a huge contrast between the top flight and League One.

While Albion earned £8.648m from their nine live screenings this season and Villa £13.05m from their 16 appearances, Wolves earned just £135,000 for their five slots before the cameras.

Premier League clubs are paid up to £1m per live match screened, League One clubs receive just £30,000 as the home team and £10,000 as the visiting side. Albion's TV income and prize money amounted to £65.79m

Doyle admits no motivation to play for Wolves

Football

KEVIN DOYLE has admitted he found it difficult to motivate himself to play for Wolves in League One.

The 30-year-old striker is preparing to play for QPR in the Championship play-off final against Derby at Wembley this Saturday hoping to end his loan period on a high by securing a return to the Premier League.

Doyle, who has a year left on his £40,000-a-week contract, is due to report back to Wolves for the start of pre-season training with the rest of the squad on June 25. The Ireland international is hoping his future is sorted out earlier than that and he can earn a permanent move to Loftus Road.

But reflecting on this season at Molineux, Doyle, who scored three goals in 23 League games this season for Wolves before netting twice in 11 for Rangers, admitted he found it tough getting excited about playing in the third tier.

"Self-belief is always there. The personal motivational side of it is the hardest," said the forward.

"Especially in League One, I found that difficult. I've always believed in myself, whether that shows or not I don't know."

Doyle was briefly ostracised when he was sent to train on his own with fellow big earners Stephen Ward, Karl Henry and Jamie O'Hara for a day last summer.

And he was one of four strikers to depart Wolves in January with Leigh Griffiths and Bjorn Sigurdarson in a gamble that paid off spectacularly for Jackett as Nouha Dicko and Leon Clarke came in.

But the former Reading man insists he has no axe to grind with head coach Kenny Jackett.

"I don't feel bitter towards them or anything," he said. "It was such a total downer. We had three good years in the Premier League and then it was two years of a disaster zone.

"You can understand totally why they wanted a clear-out, fresh minds and fresh people who hadn't been through that.

"At Wolves we were one of the favourites to go up last year and we got relegated. We had one of the highest budgets and everything. From my point of view, it's not as easy as people think."

QPR have arguably the biggest budget in the Championship.

Foot on the gas time for Cradley

CRADLEY have been warned to guard against complacency by boss Will Pottinger ahead of a big spell of meetings.

Heathens face three matches on the next two Tuesday nights at Wolverhampton – starting with the visit of Kent in National League action on May 27.

Then they will be staging a double-header on Tuesday, June 3 – but the order of meetings is currently to be confirmed.

They will be up against Scunthorpe in a league match and will also race the second leg of their Knockout Cup tie with Mildenhall on the same night.

Admission prices have been set at £14 adults, £10 concessions and £2 children for 30 heats of racing.

Heathens went to Mildenhall and pulled off a stunning 10-point win on Sunday with big hitters Steve Worrall and Paul Starke in brilliant form.

Boss Pottinger said: "We were chuffed with the performance, everyone put in a shift and did really, really well.

"We have got to stay focused and give a professional performance in the second leg though because it's not over yet. It was a very promising performance but we can't afford to take our foot off the gas."

Georg is due to come back

GEORG MARGREITTER is set to return to Wolves and rejoin his fellow loan exiles after FC Copenhagen failed to negotiate a loan extension.

The Austrian centre-back has spent a season-long loan with the Danish side managed by former Wolves boss Stale Solbakken, who signed him two years ago for £500,000.

Margreitter played 19 games in all competitions as the Danish giants finished second in the SAS Ligaen, six points behind champions Aalborg, although he missed the final match of the season, a 3-2 win against Odense OB as he served a one-match suspension. Solbakken wanted to keep the 25-year-old for another season, but it's thought Wolves want to sell the former Austria Vienna stopper, and the Norwegian admitted they couldn't pay his wages.

Delighting

Former Stourbridge player, No.3 Wes Griffiths and the opener Kester Moseley took the score to 53 when Griffiths was caught from the bowling of James Wood for 18, delighting Stour's players.

The biggest partnership of the innings was built between Mosley and the skipper Shahid they progressed the score to 103.

Next to go was the skipper falling LBW to Audy Alexander for 22 in the 34th over total on 104.

With a run rate just over three an over Stour's effort were paying off despite the two chances that went begging. Sixteen year old Dion Patel, number 5 joined the opener Moseley with a mission to accelerate the run rate.

Stourbridge's opening partnership of 21 between Alex Bingham and Steve Game set the tone for their reply. Bingham who had played two consecutive square cuts off Dan Jones was first to depart with his score on 10.

He was caught in the slips on a rebound from the keeper Jones getting the better of Bingham. Game and Richard Bradley batted for nine overs putting on 48. Drinks taken on 17 overs Stour were well placed at 68-1 needing 127 for victory.

The cautious Bradley was a victim of LBW to the spinner Zain Shahid for 27. In the next over Game, who looked solid in defence, went in the same way off the bowling of Richard Brooker for 25.

Bush Athletic double up to retain dual titles

Bush Athletic Football Club have enjoyed another good season holding onto both the league and cup. The team is both Dudley and Cradley Heath Football Premier Division Champions and Thornleigh Freight Trophy winners. Bush achieved the double after defeating Pensnett United 4-2 in last Sunday's Thornleigh Freight Trophy. They won the league sweeping aside allcomers while remaining unbeaten. They ended by winning 13 and drawing 1 while scoring 84 goals and conceding only 17.

Women end on low spot

Bradford City Ladies 4 Wolves Women 0

WOLVES Women were unable to rise to the occasion of playing their final game of the season in the impressive surroundings of Valley Parade, and fell to a resounding 4-0 defeat against hosts Bradford City Ladies.

Bradford broke through with an attacking run from their midfield player, who unleashed a terrific 20-yard shot which smashed into the net and left Hall with no chance.

A short while later came some sloppy defending from Wolves, who weren't able to clear the danger, and Bradford made it 2-0.

The second half continued in the same vein, and in the 65th minute Bradford made it 3-0 with a great finish following a simple run to the edge of the Wolves' 18-yard box.

Bradford ended any Wolves' hopes with another run from midfield to beat keeper Hall and make it four with 20 minutes to go.

Manager Trevor Mullings said: "It was a typical end of season game for us.

"There was no urgency from the players and we found it difficult."

Gera's goodbye to the Albion

HAWTHORNS hero Zoltan Gera has said a fond farewell to Albion insisting "I've enjoyed every minute".

The fans' favourite is one of 10 players to depart in a dramatic end-of-season clearout, bringing to an end a successful Baggies career.

"I enjoyed every minute I spent here," said the 35-year-old.
